

FAIRBANKS AND HIS

MRS. FAIRBANKS AND SON, DOUGLAS, JR.

Recognize "Doug" in his son? The resemblance is startling. Despite the separation of father and mother, young Fairbanks continues to idolize the film favorite.

MRS. FAIRBANKS DECLARES

RECONCILIATION BE

By KATHERINE BROOKS.

"Mr. Fairbanks and I are permanently separated. There has been no reconciliation, and there will not be. All rumors to the contrary are false, and any rumors that you may hear in the future to the contrary will be false. I wish you would say this for me, as plainly as possible, for I have been much annoyed by persistent stories of a reconciliation. There is nothing in them, whatever."

Thus, emphatically, spoke Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks to me on the veranda of her Summer home at Watch Hill, Rhode Island.

"And it is true," she was asked, "that you are not going to seek a divorce?"

"I have no plans," she answered.

Mrs. Fairbanks has said on previous occasions that there would be no divorce, only a "complete separation."

Resides, there is Douglas, Junior, who adores his father. What need to pour the poison into his young soul?

He was sitting on the veranda when I arrived, and had it not been for the small figure and youthful face I would have sworn it was Douglas, Senior. The resemblance is startling. If you met that boyish face in Jersey you would take one look and shrug.

"Hey! Heavens!"

PROUD OF HIS DAD.

"Yes, the resemblance is strong," said his mother, "and he is terribly proud of it. He wants to do everything his father does."

"Only his hair and pale lips," said his mother, "and his light hair is volunteered young 'Doggie' recently."

In a Boy Scout uniform with the wide brimmed hat he looked very like a youthful cowboy of the films.

"And do you ride?" asked his mother.

"Daddy?" asked Douglas's replica.

"Yes," his mother replied, "and I can ride a runaway horse, but that's all."

"All?" echoed the effectful child.

"I could ride a runaway horse, a good deal."

But Douglas was bent on not taking any more credit than he felt was his.

"I didn't know he was a runaway horse till I got on him," he explained.

As the little Fairbanks had nearly as much knowledge of the world as his father, I suspect that run away horse was very much on his mind.

He had bitten off more than he could chew.

"MR. DOUGLAS' CHARM."

Douglas and his mother are staying at the home of Mrs. Fairbanks' parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Bully, on Ridge avenue. Mrs. Fairbanks was "Bully" Bully, daughter of the well known cotton broker, and she looks like Bully still, for, in spite of the years, she is still a girl.

Young Douglas is nearly nine years old.

He was a white and a wash and a little "doggie" of his mother, like the bloom on an apple. Under a wide hat he has the look of a little boy and a little girl.

He is a girl's child, a little girl's child, a little girl's child.

He is a girl's child, a little girl's child, a little girl's child.

He is a girl's child, a little girl's child, a little girl's child.

Expect Pound Limit in Candy Sales in Boston

A request by the Federal Food and Drug Administration that only one pound of candy be sold to a customer is expected to be followed by a similar request in Boston.

"All our people from now on shall buy no more than one pound of candy at any one time, and considerably reduce the consumption of all sweetened luxuries," which sugar is an ingredient, says the suggestion from Washington.

"Let moderate buying of candy be the rule," said the limit of the Food Administration, and encourage the purchasing of candy in bulk.

The suggestion is expected to be followed by a similar request in Boston.

SCHWAB OPPOSES WARPLEHEAD AT RUSSIAN SHIPMENTS

Best in Land, He Says—Witnesses Launching of Destroyer at Fors River

The Bethlehem Steel plant at Fors River and Squamscott are the largest and most successful shipbuilding plants in the United States. This is the expressed opinion of the master minds of steel and shipbuilding. Charles M. Schwab, director-general of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and President Eugene C. Grace of the Bethlehem Steel Company.

Mr. Schwab is now in Washington, whether he went after a hurried visit to Boston and Squamscott to witness the highly successful launching of the destroyer McDermott. Mr. Schwab is in Bethlehem, Pa., once more directed the construction of the ship. The ship was launched from the main office of his company at Fors River. Mrs. Mary Brown Grace, broke the bottle of champagne over the bow of the destroyer at just the psychological instant.

PUTS BOSTON IN LEAD. Before leaving Mr. Schwab rated "the plants of the Boston district" as the best in the world. Mr. Schwab had previously done the same when he wound up a four-day stay here with a visit to both plants.

Said Mr. Schwab: "When you get down to hard tasks and examine the performance of the shipyards of the United States, I am obliged to admit that the plants of the Boston district under Vice-President Joseph W. Powell and General Manager S. W. Wickham have set a mark for the Emergency Fleet Corporation unapproached by any shipyard in the United States."

He said that he had control of these plants. I said I will make them the largest and most successful shipbuilding plants in the United States. I want the people of Boston to hear what he said today. It is the largest and most successful general plant in the United States."

Mr. Schwab compared the Kaiser to a yellow dog to the delight of some 15,000 people who heard him. SAYS KAISER CAN'T WIN. "Mr. Grace and I used to ride in a train every day that stopped at a wagon wheel. The Kaiser used to come and bark at the train every day. I used to say to him, 'Why does the dog do that? When does he stop?'"

"I don't know," Grace said, "but I would like to know what he would say with this train or he could say 'What would the Kaiser do if he saw the last dollar of our treasure or the last drop of our blood.'"

"I don't know," Grace said, "but I would like to know what he would say with this train or he could say 'What would the Kaiser do if he saw the last dollar of our treasure or the last drop of our blood.'"

Pope Reminds Irish of Patriotic Duties

By International News Service. Rome, Aug. 7.—Pope Benedict has addressed a letter to the Irish bishops, pointing out the patriotic duties of the Irish Roman Catholics. It was learned in circles close to the Vatican today.

It is presumed that the papal message dealt with the situation in Ireland resulting from home rule agitation.

Chief Goodwin flatly refused to hand in his resignation. Neither Selectman Caborn nor H. C. Graves, however, admitted that he introduced the order on August 5. "The good of the service" and declared that his action was simply for the purpose of "bringing the matter to a head."

A possible explanation of the action is offered by the failure of Chief Goodwin to have the words "March 1918" on the side of the police automobile ordered by the Board of Selectmen last year ago.

After several months elapsed and no letter appeared on the police automobile, the selectmen personally holding up the job, much to the chagrin of Chief Goodwin and the Board of Selectmen.

Since this incident relations between Chief Goodwin and the Board of Selectmen have been somewhat strained, residents declare.

E. R. SHERBURNE COMPANY AIDS FOOD WORK

The Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety has issued the following bulletin on the revocation of the license of the E. R. Sherburne Company.

"Reports appearing in the press might lead the public to believe that the E. R. Sherburne Company, since the revocation of its license for profiteering, has been hoarding sugar, contrary to the wishes and in violation of the rules of the Food Administration."

"The Food Administration has no reason to believe that the E. R. Sherburne Company, and at its various branches, were purchased prior to the revocation of its license. The sugar which was delivered after the revocation was ordered before the time and were shipped by the company to the Food Administration, by the consent of the Food Administration, the stocks on hand and the sales of the company were not abnormal, considering the size of its business and number of customers it had been supplying."

"The existence of the Continental Automobile Corporation, holding the license, and the fact that the E. R. Sherburne Company was known to the Food Administration and continues to conduct business with the Food Administration, is not a violation of the law."

"The Sherburne and Leavitt companies did a large sugar business, but their business was not considered by the Food Administration to be an unlawful monopoly. The Food Administration has no reason to suppose that the E. R. Sherburne Company, since the revocation of its license, has failed to cooperate with it in the distribution of its stocks to the public, but on the contrary its officials have been responsive to every request by the Administration."

ECZEMA ON FACE CUTICURA HEALS

Also On Head and Neck. Terribly Inflamed and Sore.

"My face, head, and neck were all broken out in a fine rash. It was pronounced eczema. My face and neck were swollen terribly, and I could not sleep at night, nor rest by day. The skin was terribly itchy and burned and sore, and I had to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I could use a change and I used three cakes of Soap with two boxes of Ointment and I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Fred McWilliams, Woodland, Me.

Use Cuticura Soap and Ointment exclusively for all toilet purposes. Each Box Price 15c. Address postmaster, Dept. 1, Portland, Me.

They Licked the Prussian Guard

By ARTHUR T. BROWNE.

In the great battle now in progress on the western front the American troops have met and defeated the crack Prussian Guard, reported to be the finest fighting body on the Continent—Nestlé.

It was a black and white story. The Prussian Guard, they were called. They were a mighty force. They were a mighty force. They were a mighty force.

17 S. Naval Radio School at Cambridge, Aug. 7.—Byron C. Martin, one of the party of Radio boys whose homes are in Kansas City, was married today to Miss Lorraine Anderson. Both are twenty-four years old.

Miss Anderson's father is an extensive manufacturer with large factories in Baltimore and Kansas City. The couple became engaged previous to Mr. Martin's entering the Radio School about three months ago.

APPOINTED MAHAR SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSIONER

James J. Mahar of 68 E. street, South Boston, has been appointed a Schoolhouse Commissioner, and Carl Dreyfus, No. 123 Bay State Road, a City Hospital trustee, in place of the late A. Shuman, by Mayor Peters. Mr. Mahar takes the position made vacant by the resignation of William J. Hennessy, a Curley appointee. His salary is $2,500.

The newly appointed schoolhouse commissioner is a graduate of Technology and is an expert on heating and ventilating. He entered the department in 1902 as draughtsman and at present a Chief Engineer of Heating and Ventilating.

Other appointments made by the Mayor, all of which are unpaid positions, are that of Mr. Dreyfus, an architect, as a Stinking Pond Commissioner, and Dr. John F. O'Brien, of No. 223 Beacon street, as Chairman of the Consumptive Hospital Trustees.

Boche Flyers Capture Bay State Man After a Hard Fight

London, Aug. 7.—English G. T. Roe, who hails from Massachusetts, while piloting a British hydroplane on May 17, was attacked by five German machines while he was in the water due to engine trouble. He is now a prisoner in Germany. Roe made a gallant defense aided by his two British companions, one of whom was killed while the other was wounded. Roe's machine was destroyed.

"COUNT MAX" ARRESTED ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

New York, Aug. 7.—"Count" Max Low Pay of Chicago, known also as Max Lowden, who has eluded notoriety in various ways, was arrested by the police on a charge of grand larceny made by Benjamin Waldman, an automobile dealer. He said the count had run up an automobile bill of $100 and then gave him checks which were returned as worthless.

LIVES 200 YEARS!

For more than 200 years, Harnett of the famous national remedy in Holland, has been recognized as an authority on all matters of skin and bladder disorders. Its very name is proof that it must have unusual merit.

Yankee Airmen Offer Prize for Best Nickname

By FRED J. BOLLMEYER.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Park, Aug. 7.—Uncle Sam's air fighters want a nickname, and in order to get a suitable name—one that will stick—a number of them have made up a purse to be given the person who sends in the best suggestion before the middle of August.

The aviators say they must have a good name that will stick because they intend to be hot after the German airman when they meet in the air.

Here are some of the suggestions sent in so far: Airman, plane-fighter, canvas back, bird, high flier, winner, eagle, owl, liberty eagle, lion, eagle, liberty eagle, hawk, wise bird and winged devil.

But none of them have been chosen as yet. The American aviator appears to be having as much trouble finding a suitable nickname as the American soldier. It seems that the latter can get a nickname that is like or that sounds right.

PROHIBITION BY SEPT. 1 PREDICTED BY BRYAN

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 7.—Nation-wide prohibition by Sept. 1 as a war conservation measure was predicted here by William Jennings Bryan. Mr. Bryan declared he thought public pressure would be enough to secure the desired result despite the fact that the law now before Congress does not make prohibition effective before Nov. 1.

NEW FURS, AUGUST SAVINGS

As near as the nearest letterbox

You who are summering way up in New Hampshire, or dipping in the brine on the Maine coast, or knitting socks for soldiers (plain army socks, not fancy ones) on some hotel piazza, should bear this in mind: When you go to your trunk for something to wear to the dance; something for the tennis tournament or the daily round of golf; something to keep you cooler and better tempered; the Filene store is as near to you as the nearest letterbox.

Write us just as you would to a friend: tell us your troubles, and let us pick out something for you and send it up by the next delivery.

If what we send is not just what you want, the express runs both ways and you can return it.

Women and misses are snapping up the 'coon and muskrat coats quickly at August savings.

We guarantee savings now over November prices. All furs bought now will be stored with no charge until November. Pay it now, the rest in November or whenever the furs are taken.

Sketched, a Filene August value in raccoon coats $150. A full length bordered coat of full-furred natural raccoon.

—Other new Filene furs at August savings

Natural muskrat coats, $22.50 to $300. Natural raccoon coats, $115 to $200. Nutria coats (Southern beaver), $135 to $500. Heavy nutria coats (dressed muskrat), $150 to $300. Fur scarfs, muffs and sets at August savings. Filene's—mail orders filled—sixth floor.

White stockings with about 15 inches of good heavy silk. $1

This stocking has a name, 39S. It is one of three extremely dependable Crest Brand stockings. 39S is pure-dye silk.

79S is like 39S in being pure-dye silk, but it has about 20 inches of silk instead of 15, and costs $1.75. 93S is the aristocrat of them all, an all silk ingrain Crest Brand white stocking which is very lustrous. $2.25.

Filene's—mail orders filled—street floor.

FULLERTON PRAISES BIG BADE

Declares Red Sox Players Should Present Ruth With Half of World's Series Spoils

By HUGH S. FULLERTON
We are going to have a world's series—unless the government forbids or the ball players of the two teams which win the pennants get scared and refuse to play.
The Chicago Cubs and Boston Red Sox look to be almost certain winners of the championships, so they are in the lead and the audience favor them.
However, Cleveland has better than a fighting chance to drive through to victory, especially if the Red Sox are crippled by the loss of Scott, which may take place any day.
The Red Sox have all the advantage of the schedule and they are a great team on their home grounds, but they are short on man-power and even now a serious injury, or the colling of one of the men in the draft, may turn the scale against them.
If they win, Babe Ruth ought to be given 50 per cent. of the team's share as he has won this pennant almost alone by his hitting and pitching.
Why count shares? Because in the World Series has turned the tide by his own efforts, so that without him, even with a first-class substitute for him, the team would be down in fourth or fifth place.
Ruth undoubtedly has been the great individual star of the season.

TAD'S TIDBITS

YOUNG GRIFFO'S FRIEND.

TWENTY YEARS AGO HIRAM JOHNSON was a lawyer in the little town of Sacramento, California. He fought all kinds of suits, made a rep and later on was elected Governor of the State. He was such a popular Governor that later he ran for United States Senator and was elected by a great vote.

He is now one of the big guns in the Senate.
Now, back to the tidbits.
You all know Young Griff, that marvelous Australian—the man who could stand upon a handkerchief, let you swing at him and never step off his boundaries. He was one of the tightest ringsters that ever pounded his mitts.

He was talking about the old days to some old friends recently. "I had a bit of 'rd luck when I first came to this country," said Griff, scratching his gray head.

"One of my first bouts in this country was with a lad named Bull McCarthy, and I took place in Sacramento, Cal. We boxed nineteen rounds, I think, and finally the fellow collapsed in the ring. That night he died, and it really was from over-exertion, not from the punching. However, I was put in jail, charged with murder, and I didn't a friend in the blooming land."

Next morning, to my surprise, a stout little fellow named 'Iram Johnson, a lawyer, who I'd seen me box, came to my cell and said: 'Griff, I'll represent you in this case. I'll get you off.'
"I went in court for me that day. Got me out of the scrape. Wouldn't take a cent for my trouble. Just shook me up and wished me luck. 'He sure was 'Iram Johnson. I'll never forget it. You know, I never saw nor heard of him since."

"I wonder if he's still out there." And Griff shook his head, thinking.

Such is fame! Eh, men?

He Had the Range That Day.

JOE TINKER WAS TELLING ABOUT a great pitcher he faced when he first played with the Cubs. "He had a ball that came straight at your head," said Joe, "then suddenly dropped right over the plate. It was probably that greatest curve ball that was ever served up from a pitcher's mound. We had a left-handed guy with us then who used to strangle the bat and himself all up at the plate. He got up against this pitcher one day and fanned three times in a row. He just chucked at the offer, and missed every one by two feet.
"Coming back to the bench, he sat next to Chance and said, 'Tough luck! I have. I had the range on every one of them today.'
"Chance looked at him a second and then, with a grin, replied: 'I'd like to see you some day when you DON'T have THIS RANGE.'"

Four Happy Muscles by Jennings' Relief Hurry Settle Stiff Ten-Round Encounter

Detroit, Aug. 7.—Pitcher Kallio, the second baseman called upon by Manager Jennings to beat the Red Sox in the opening contest in this three-game, took an accession to the tenth frame and made the Sox, coupled with Shoen's one spot, gave the Red Sox three runs. The Tigers came back with a counter in their section of the round, making the final tally, 7-5.

With the score at 4 all, Kallio, with one out in the tenth, gave two free hits to first and then made a wild throw to the grandstand, when he had a double play in sight. His throw, coupled with Shoen's one spot, gave the Red Sox three runs. The Tigers came back with a counter in their section of the round, making the final tally, 7-5.

N. E. A. A. U. Title Meet Is Set for September 14

The N. E. A. A. U. championship meet will be held September 14 at Technology Field. The meet will open at 10 a. m. New England registered amateurs, and also to 1915 season champs of New England, provided such men have not competed in any other sectional championships (such as the Metropolitan, Middle, South Atlantic, Pacific, Southern or Western) at the N. E. A. A. U. since June 14, 1915.

The meet will probably be the most track championship competition, but field events will be of a minimum.

The track and field championship committee hopes to announce many service events, such as tug-of-war, relay racing, etc.

OTIS CRANDALL TO MAKE BOW AS BRAVE

By NICK FLATLEY.
Ancient Doc Crandall, who has been collected from the defunct Pacific League, was due to resume his old life today as a big leaguer and keep the Braves safe from burial in the cellar of the proudest National League.

The Braves, who are playing regular ball once more, made their position a bit more secure by taking the first four from the visiting Cardinals, 10 to 3.

The Cards, it might be observed, are in a very bad way for players having hit four pitchers along on Lee Meadows was forced to stay in the trip. For that reason he appeared there and take a 5-0 beating.

Practically Nothing :- By T. E. Powers

The Edison Company and the New England Power Company have petitioned the Gas and Electric Light Board for permission to connect their power wires in order that the Edison Company may utilize the electricity produced by water power. This is very well.

Mr. MacFarland, counsel for the AMERICAN, in his reply cited the possibilities of a connection between the water power company in Western Massachusetts and the Edison as a means of reducing the amount of coal required by the Edison Company.

Among other things Mr. MacFarland said:

Killing output. The coal has not, so far, become a threatening item to the Edison Company's cost of production, and it is not at all likely to become threatening. It is a very, very small item in the cost of producing electricity, anyway. In the highly improbable event of a strike by the miners, the Edison Company would be able to continue bringing to Boston electricity produced by water power. In the recent case of the city of Boston against the Edison Company, it appears that money was secretly used to represent the Edison Company's interest in the case. The Edison Company's claim is that the transmission line is in Edison territory of the Connecticut Transmission Company, now the New England Power Company. The president of the Edison Company is also president of the New England Power Company, and he is also on the board of directors of the New England Power Company, an inconsistent position which Commissioner Schick criticized as contrary to public interest. But bringing the Edison Company's cost of production down to the coal-using company.

There is now in preparation a plan to unite the several power stations of the different electric lighting companies in the south-eastern section of the State in such a way as to produce an enormous saving of coal and of labor during war conditions. A law has just been passed to enable this plan to be carried out. That the gentleman promoting it proposes to cut a melon after the war does not change the fact that this possibility of these savings, amounting probably to more than twenty-five per cent. of the maximum production of the plants uniting, exists as a protection against any serious result of a great increase in coal costs.

— The plants could be located in the southern part of the State, where the coal is abundant, and the connecting works. This will save an enormous amount of coal and will enable the companies to meet the tremendous increase of the profitable power demand on account of the war, without any additional capital expenditures. Mr. Elden, you will remember, also admitted that the same quantity of coal could be increased in capacity could be obtained by a similar combination of the plants of capacity.

north of Boston. The company becomes very much distressed for coal, it also has recourse to the Edison power company which gets its power from the Connecticut River, which is able not only to deliver the electric light but to transport it from the power house to the city of Boston, and then to the city and there, and make a good profit besides, for less than the Boston Edison charging that it costs the Edison merely to manufacture electricity. Boston did not have to pay for it less than the Edison sells its electricity to place it electrically on its switchboard. The Edison's representatives could plead patriotism and war conditions and the cost of coal very much more dear than before, but the city of Boston is full of coal and very few secret coal shippers to keep the water company out of this territory. The defeat by self-confessed German methods of attempting the Connecticut Power Company to take the electric light out of this territory; and the fact that the city of Boston, Mr. Edgen, preside of the Boston Edison company, upon its board of directors apparently has forced upon the power company, the Edison's competitor, a German plan, and has left the power company in the hands of the right of the corporation at the city of Boston have given the Russians.

It is interesting to note that the companies have now united to do what the counsel for the AMERICAN suggested ought to be done.

THE DECALOGUE OF GEN. FOCH

His Commandments Could Be Applied to Private or Business Life as Well as Made a Family
Creed in Every Man's Home.

THE following "Ten Commandments" of General Foch, commander-in-chief of the allied armies, are regarded as embodying the highest ideals for soldierly conduct:

Keep your eyes and ears ready and your mouth in the safety notch, for it is your soldierly duty to see and hear clearly, but as a rule you should be heard mainly in the sentry challenges or the charging cheer.

Obey orders first, and if still alive kick afterward if you have been wronged.

Keep your arms and equipment clean and in good order; treat your

Keep your animals equipped and in good order. Treat your animals kindly and fairly and your motor or other machine as though it belonged to you and was the only one in the world. Do not waste your ammunition, your gas, your food, your time, nor your opportunity.

Never try to fire an empty gun nor fire at an empty trench, but when you shoot, shoot to kill, and forget not that at close quarters a bayonet hurls a bullet.

Tell the truth squarely, face the music, and take your punishment like a man; for a good soldier won't lie, he doesn't sulk and is no squealer.

Be merciful to the women of your foe and shame them not, for you are a man; pity and shield the children in your captured territory, for you were once a helpless child.

Bear in mind that the enemy is your enemy and the enemy of humanity until he is killed or captured; then he is your dead brother or your fellow-soldier beaten or ashamed, whom you should no further

Do your best to keep your head clear and cool, your body clean and comfortable and your feet in good condition, for you think with your head, fight with your body and march with your feet.

Be of good cheer and high courage; shirk neither work nor danger; suffer in silence, and cheer the comrades at your side with a smile.

Dread defeat, but not wounds; fear dishonor, but not death, and die game, and whatever the task, remember the motto of the division, "It shall be done."
